Historical Context

This document is a single row extracted from a historical German Catholic baptismal register (Taufregister). It records the birth and baptism of a child named Anna Maria. The tabular format is highly characteristic of 18th and 19th-century German church records, meticulously documenting the child's legitimacy, the parents' names, occupations, religion, and exact residence (house number), as well as the identities of the godparents and the attending midwife. The script is written in Kurrentschrift, a traditional German handwriting style.

Details Mentioned

Principal Individuals:

- Anna Maria (Child): Born on July 17 at 4:00 AM in Arnstein. Baptized on July 17 in the parish of Arnstein. She is noted as a legitimate child.
- Joseph Holz (Father): Profession: Silk tailor (Seidenschneider). Religion: Catholic. Residence: Arnstein, House No. 173.
- Anna Maria Metzger (Mother): Religion: Catholic. Residence: Arnstein, House No. 173. (Note: 'Metzgerin' includes the traditional feminine suffix '-in').

Associated Individuals:

- Elisabeth Mayer: Midwife (Hebamme).
- Simon Warmuth: Godfather.
- Anna Maria Zöllner: Godmother. Noted as single (ledig) and from the same town (von hier).

Key Findings

- The document records the birth (July 17, 4:00 AM) and baptism (July 17) of Anna Maria in Arnstein.
- Her parents were Joseph Holz, a Catholic silk tailor, and Anna Maria Metzger.
- The family lived at house number 173 in Arnstein.
- The record identifies the midwife, Elisabeth Mayer, and the godparents, Simon Warmuth and Anna Maria Zöllner.

Suggested Next Steps

- You should search for the marriage record of Joseph Holz and Anna Maria Metzger in the Catholic parish registers of Arnstein to find their parents' names and origins.
- You should look for other children born to this couple in the same parish register to reconstruct the family unit.

- You should investigate the godparents, Simon Warmuth and Anna Maria Zöllner, as godparents were frequently close relatives (aunts/uncles) or significant community members.
- You should use MyHeritage to search for the Holz and Metzger surnames in Arnstein, Bavaria (a likely location given the Catholic context and town name), to find potential family trees or indexed records.
